"Disease is in essence the result of conflict between Soul and Mind," Dr. E. Bach

NEWS

Personally Blended Flower Essences now available to harmonise with Body Code treatment. See website for more details!

TESTIMONIAL

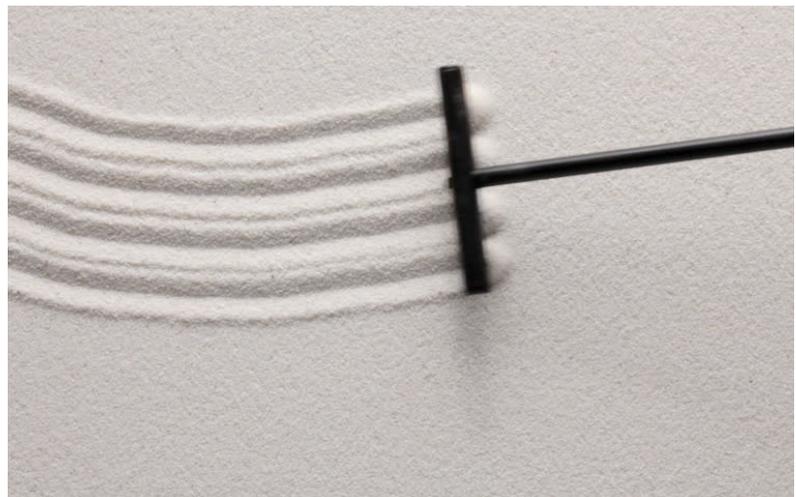

"Not only did the Body Code treatment give me a feeling of lightness, but the floral essence created a sense of calm that got me through the holidays, usually an extremely stressful experience. I am amazed by the affect they had on me within the first two days."

FLOWER ESSENCES

Flower Essences are considered one of the most potent healing remedies, utilised as a profound form of energy medicine. Shamanic healing, Ancient Egypt, Greece, Sumerians, Assyrians, Asians as well as Romans and Aborigines have discovered the powerful impact of flower essences on the human psyche for emotional, physical and spiritual healing. The reassurance of this method was inspired by the British pathologist who noted a correlation between emotional issues and illness. He revitalised this accepted process again to treat the person and not the illness. His work is the basis of my work with an expanded array of essences that come from many parts of the world, including Canada, Japan and Britain. I can use the traditional method of creating a blend for a client but I have found that using the communication with the higher being, the subconscious, which is the basis of the Body Code, allows me to create the ideal antidote to imbalances and blocks that harmonises with the Body Code treatment.

These lovely elegant drops of excelsior hold the energy and frequency from the sun, life-giving properties that hold new patterns of high consciousness. They assist our development into a more evolved self, spiritually mature and balanced.

How The Essence Is Made

Flowers are picked while at the perfection of maturity. They are then bathed in a bowl of purified water left to soak in the warm sun. The healing energy is removed from the petals and the very concentrated solution is enhanced with an 8% organic brandy solution to preserve the nature. This mother tincture is used to blend with other flowers to harmonise the treatment to a perfect pitch of frequencies.

How To Take

Anyone can take these drops, whether a baby, a pregnant woman, a horse - the dosage is always the same. You cannot overdose. If you take more than you need or the wrong one, nothing will happen, it will just not make you feel better than if you took the right one at the right dose. Can Big Pharma claim that? The normal dosage is 4 drops under the tongue, 6 times a day. You can put a drop on your forehead, or that of a child if taking drops is hard. Try not to let the dropper end touch anything to keep it clean. There are no restrictions on eating or drinking. It is important to not expose the bottle to extremely hot or cold temperatures. Some might feel a change within the first few doses. Others will need several days to note a change. The cumulative effect transforms and enhances awareness and a sense of calm throughout life.

Flower Essence vs The Allopathic Philosophy

“Nature’s Medicinals (flower essences) immense and rapidly growing appeal stems from the fact that they are fundamentally different from conventional drugs. Instead of disrupting or diverting the chemistry of metabolism, they convey complex informational patterns directly from nature. These patterns trigger a kind of physiological and psychological reorganization that brings you more into synchrony with the flux and flow of the larger gestalt of which you are a part. This is healing into harmony with nature. Though gentle in their action, such remedies can have an impact that is profound and curative in a way that you may not have imagined. (Dr. Rudolph Ballentine, M.D., Radical Healing, (New York: Three Rivers Press, 1999)

Big Pharma is successful in the treatment of crisis based illness. A broken leg, meningitis, are examples where it is a vital source. However, it is a medicine that treats and covers up symptoms. Flower Essence instead works on your metaphysical level of understanding of self, so that the self can address the imbalances to heal. The process is a way to heal from the inner level of causation. Causation is the level of metaphysical in which imbalances find form. The start of imbalances then affect the physical. To heal we must impact the metaphysical level. Through the Body Code, then aided with the Flower Essence blends, personally designed for you, we can make a clear empowered healing of your issues.
